Ceremony liturgical music:

Catholic wedding ceremonies often include many moments for music, especially if the ceremony is a full mass. Some of these moments (such as the preparation of gifts) call for quiet background music; other moments (such as the responsorial psalm) involve accompaniment of a cantor and/or the congregation. Most commonly, another musician (often someone associated with the home church) accompanies the cantor/congregation, and I provide quiet background music as requested. Occasionally, upon request, I provide accompaniment for a cantor/congregation. However, I cannot serve as a cantor.

Will another musician play for liturgical music? Yes No
